

Credit Suisse Funds Important Investor Information Regarding Breakpoints

Below is a general Breakpoint Disclosure Statement discussing various matters an investor should consider when investing in the CREDIT SUISSE Funds. Please read it carefully.

Sales Charges

Investors that purchase CREDIT SUISSE Funds must make certain choices, including which funds to purchase and which share class is most advantageous. Each CREDIT SUISSE Fund has a specified investment strategy. You need to consider whether the fund's investment strategy is compatible with your investment objectives. Additionally, each publically available CREDIT SUISSE Fund offers different share classes. Although each share class represents a similar interest in the fund's portfolio, the fund will charge you different fees and expenses depending upon your choice of share class. Class A shares of most CREDIT SUISSE Funds carry a "front-end" sales charge or "load" that is deducted from your investment at the time you buy fund shares. This sales charge is a percentage of your total purchase. As explained below, the CREDIT SUISSE Funds offer volume discounts to the front-end sales charge assessed on Class A shares at certain pre-determined levels of investment, which are called "breakpoint discounts." A complete waiver of front-end sales charges on Class A share purchases may also be available for certain types of accounts or account holders.

In contrast, Class C shares of the CREDIT SUISSE Funds do not carry any front-end sales charges. Instead, investors that purchase Class C shares pay asset-based sales charges, which continues for the life of your investment. Investors that purchase Class C shares may also be required to pay a Contingent Deferred Sales Charge if they sell their shares within one year of purchase. Investors in Class A shares of the CREDIT SUISSE Funds may also pay a Contingent Deferred Sales Charge if they paid no front-end sales charge due to a volume discount and then redeem such shares within 18 months of purchase.

Breakpoint Discounts and Waivers

The CREDIT SUISSE Funds offer investors a variety of ways to qualify for breakpoint discounts on the sales charge associated with the purchase of Class A shares. In general, the CREDIT SUISSE Funds provide breakpoint discounts to investors who make large purchases at one time. The extent of the discount depends upon the size of the purchase. As the amount of the purchase increases, the percentage used to determine the sales charge decreases. In fact, the entire sales charge may be waived for investors that make very large purchases of Class A shares or for certain types of accounts and account holders. The CREDIT SUISSE Funds' prospectuses contain tables that illustrate the available breakpoint discounts and the investment levels at which breakpoint discounts apply. Additionally, the CREDIT SUISSE Funds allow investors to qualify for breakpoint discounts based upon current holdings from prior purchases through "Right of Accumulation," and future purchases, based upon "Letters of Intent." You should discuss these issues with your financial advisor and review the applicable CREDIT SUISSE Funds prospectus to determine the specific terms upon which the CREDIT SUISSE Funds offer breakpoint discounts.

Combined Purchase Privilege — A "Qualifying Investor" may qualify for a breakpoint discount on Class A shares by combining concurrent purchases of the Class A shares of one or more CREDIT SUISSE Funds into a single purchase.

Right of Accumulation — A "Qualifying Investor" may qualify for a breakpoint discount on Class A shares by combining the purchase of Class A shares of a CREDIT SUISSE Fund with the current aggregate net asset value (NAV) of all Class A, B and C shares of any CREDIT SUISSE Fund held by accounts for the benefit of such Qualifying Investor.

A "Qualifying Investor" may include an individual, certain immediate family relatives, or other related party accounts, as set forth in the current prospectus. You should refer to the prospectus for details and restrictions. If you wish to rely upon the holdings of related parties or account balances at another financial firm to qualify for a breakpoint discount, you should speak with your financial advisor about these accounts. You may need to provide documentation to your financial advisor or the CREDIT SUISSE Funds' Distributor if you wish to rely upon such accounts for purposes of receiving a breakpoint discount.

Letters of Intent — The CREDIT SUISSE Funds allow investors to qualify for breakpoint discounts by signing a Letter of Intent, which indicates the investor's intent to purchase a specified amount of Class A shares within 13 months. For example, if an investor plans to purchase $50,000 worth of Class A shares over a period of 13 months, but each individual purchase would not qualify for a breakpoint discount, the investor could sign a Letter of Intent at the time of the first purchase and receive the breakpoint discount associated with $50,000 investments on the first and all subsequent purchases. Additionally, the CREDIT SUISSE Funds offer retroactive Letters of Intent that allow investors to rely upon purchases in the past to qualify for a breakpoint discount. If an investor fails to invest the amount required by the Letter of Intent, however, the CREDIT SUISSE Funds are entitled to retroactively deduct the correct sales charges based upon the amount that the investor actually invested. If you intend to make several purchases within a 13-month period, you should consult your financial advisor and the CREDIT SUISSE Funds prospectuses to determine if it would be beneficial for you to sign a Letter of Intent.

To determine whether an investor qualifies for a breakpoint discount, the offering price of the shares is used for purchases relying on the Combined Purchase Privilege or a Letter of Intent and the amount of the total current purchase (including any sales charge) plus the NAV of shares previously acquired is used for the Right of Accumulation.

Reinstatement Privilege — Class A investors who have redeemed some or all of their shares may reinvest all or a portion of such redemption proceeds in new Class A shares of any CREDIT SUISSE Fund at NAV without any sales charge, provided that such investment is made within 120 days after the redemption date. The reinstatement privilege may be utilized by a shareholder only once, with certain exceptions noted in the CREDIT SUISSE Funds prospectuses and statements of additional information.

Sales Without a Sales Charge — In addition to the programs summarized above, the CREDIT SUISSE Funds may sell their Class A shares at NAV without any sales charge to certain types of accounts or account holders, as set forth in the current prospectus. Also, Class A shares issued pursuant to the automatic reinvestment of income dividends or capital gains distributions are issued at NAV and are not subject to any sales charges.

Understanding the availability of breakpoint discounts is important because it may allow you to purchase Class A shares at a lower price. The availability of breakpoint discounts may save you money and may also affect your decision regarding the appropriate share class in which to invest. Therefore, you should discuss the availability of breakpoint discounts with your financial advisor and carefully review the applicable CREDIT SUISSE Funds prospectus and statement of additional information, which you can get from your financial advisor or our website, when choosing among the funds and share classes offered by the CREDIT SUISSE Funds.
